

Life, freshness and prosperity, development are all due to the water. Wherever there is water, there is life, the feeling of happiness and development is manifested. Water does not have color and odor, but creates beautiful colors and delicious perfumes. All of us can recite the delicate song all over the world if the droplets of the essence of life are not unreasonably destroyed. We have to plant the save seedlings and give it to the next generations as a fruitful tree. Water live is in our hands and our live are in the water hand. The drop of water is the moment of life, not wasting moments of life.

Written by: Naser Nikmaram

