

2023 IAHR Harold Jan Schoemaker Award

Nomination Form

The Harold Jan Schoemaker Award is presented at the biennial IAHR World Congress to the author(s) of the paper judged the most outstanding paper published in the IAHR Journal of Hydraulic Research \(JHR\) in the two years preceding the IAHR World Congress.

The Call for nominations for the 2023 edition of the Award is currently open until Monday 13 February 2023 (12 p.m.). Please find here a list of authors and papers published in JHR which are open for nomination.

All nominations must be submitted via email to awards@iahr.org

1. Nominator information

| | |
|---|--|
| Name of nominator* (Main contact name in case of multiple nominators) | |
| Position. Institution | |
| City, Country | |
| Region | <input type="checkbox"/> Africa <input type="checkbox"/> Asia and Pacific <input type="checkbox"/> Europe <input type="checkbox"/> Latin America <input type="checkbox"/> Middle East and North Africa <input type="checkbox"/> North America |
| Email address | |

* We discourage multiple nominators from submitting the same nomination. In case of multiple nominators for the same nominee, we suggest a letter of endorsement by all nominators.

2. Nominee(s) information

| | |
|-------------------|--|
| Name of paper | |
| Name of author(s) | |
| DOI | |
| Email address(es) | |

3. Nomination

IAHR shortlisting panels pay close attention to the nomination criteria and their decisions are solely based on the evidence provided in submitted nominations.

Statement

Please write a brief statement describing why the paper should be recognised. Please be specific. Remember that general statements tend to lack the detail needed for shortlisting.

For further information, please refer to our FAQs section on our website.