

IAHR TJU Young Professionals Network

Our vision and mission

IAHR Tianjin University Student Branch was established in 2011. It is a platform for academic exchanges among postgraduates majoring in hydraulic engineering and one of the important channels for the integration of hydraulic engineering at Tianjin University with international exchanges. Branch activities are divided into internal communication and intercollegiate interactions. Internal communication mainly includes new and old member exchange meetings, scientific and technological writing exchange meetings, special reports of domestic and foreign experts, and the doctoral forum of the IAHR Tianjin University Student Branch. Intercollegiate interactions mainly include the Hydraulics and Hydraulic Informatics Conference, the IAHR YPN doctoral academic forum, the IAHR China branch executive committee meeting, the IAHR Chinese Academy of Hydraulic Sciences student branch meeting and general assembly, and the international hydraulic conference.

Main goals and key objectives

Build a high-level academic exchange platform for postgraduate students majoring in hydraulic engineering of Tianjin University, and promote the academic innovation and professional growth of members.

Activities during this year

- Name: The 41th IAHR World Congress
- Date: 2025.06.22-27
- Venue: IAHR
- Objectives: To promote interdisciplinary exchanges in hydraulic engineering, address global water challenges and strengthen international cooperation for sustainable water development.
- Description: The 41st IAHR World Congress was held in Singapore, gathering global experts for academic exchanges or innovative water engineering for sustainability, and two young members plus one supervisor from TJU-YPN participated in the event.

- Name: The Fourth IAHR-YPN Doctoral Student Forum
- Date: 2025.09.26
- Venue: Dalian University of Technology
- Objectives: YPN doctoral student forum
- Description: The forum alternates between academic talks and discussions to create a lively exchange atmosphere. Delegates from TJU-YPN attended and performed well. Their talks sparked immediate, heated discussions, inspiring young water conservancy scholars to actively participate and engage in in-depth exchanges.
